SAN FRANCISCO TO-DAY

Junction of Post and Montgomery Streets as It Is To-Day and a Panorama of the Ruins From the Site of the Hopkins Institute of Art.

Street cars will be in operation to-day from the Ferry Building, and construction of the entire transportation system will be begun.

An offer of $400,000 for a strip of Market-street property was emphatically refused yesterday. Mayor Schmitz has issued a proclamation stating that after to-day no further seizures of automobiles or carts will be made. The condition of the homeless and shelterless who are camped in various points of the city is remarkably fine. Offers of substantial financial assistance are being rapidly received from many cities in all sections of the United States.

FUTURE IS BRIGHT FOR SAN FRANCISCO

Considering the catastrophe that descended upon San Francisco without a moment's warning, conditions here are simply marvelous. Though from the water front to Van Ness avenue the city is laid waste, westward lie well-paved streets and solid houses, while the parks and squares are as green and inviting as ever.

There is absolutely no panic of any kind. Instead every one is from being prostrated by misfortune, the citizens have banded totractive city in the wonderland of California.

Of course there are pessimists in every community. So it is no out, that the whole of Golden Gate Park was under quarantine and may be run with horses. that in a day or two the entire city would be cut off from the world by the authorities.

There was absolutely no truth in the report. Sporadic cases have been reported, it is true, but these have quickly been isolated. There is no epidemic of any kind, nor will there be if the Board of Health makes the proper sanitary arrangements without delay. NO CLASH BETWEEN AUTHORITIES.

Then there were rumors of a clash between the civil and military authorities. No such thing has occurred. The city is under martial law just now, which is the very best thing for it until the conditions are relieved.

So San Francisco is to spring up again, and quickly. This very day street cars will be running from the ferries out Market street and by Turk and Eddy streets to Fillmore, where the great powerhouse stands almost uninjured. Mayor Schmitz has given the United Railroads a special permit to operate an overhead trolley system, and by it people will be carried free of charge.

Several of the companies have already leased offices for a year in Oakland, and they will be down to business in no time. There is no limit to the liability of stockholders in the California companies.

'There is no disposition here to raise any question as to the 100,000 liability for earthquake damage," said T. C. Coogan, attorney for the Board of Underwriters, yesterday. "The question is being looked 100,000 into for the information of Eastern and European owners, but here 100,000 nobody so much as hints that any quibble will be made over paying earthquake losses."

RECORDS BELIEVED TO BE UNHARMED. Insurance Commissioner E. Myron Wolf says that he carried all 100,000 the records of his office to the basement of the Trust Company on 100,000 California street, just east of the Kohl Building. The flames got 100,000 into the structure, but it is thought the basement and the records

The board will meet again this morning at Reed Hall, its regular headquarters from now on till San Francisco is rebuilt. 10,000 ESTIMATE OF INSURANCE LOSS. Now as to the amount of that loss. The actual loss can be 10,000 placed at almost any figure, but the fixing is mere guesswork. It runs into figures beyond human comprehension. But the insurance loss can be estimated even when the books are in the fire-smitten 6,000 vaults. An insurance man who is quick at figures estimated the loss 5,000 for "The Examiner" yesterday.

He said the actual insurance loss is $225,000,000.

That makes Chicago's $120,000,000 seem cheap and Baltimore's $35,000,000 a mere trifle. This is how he figures it:

The 105 insurance companies doing business in California last year took in $2,600,000 in premiums. They probably wrote their business at an average rate of 90 cents. That would represent policies amounting to a total of $234,000,000.

The board will meet again to-morrow morning at Reed Hall, its egular headquarters from now till San Francisco is rebuilt. BURNED POLICIES TO BE HONORED.

In cases where insurance policies have been lost or burned the Relief Corps From Los Angeles Establish Five Emergency Hospitals.

The Los Angeles "Examiner's" relief corps is doing noble work. Nurses, doctors and supplies which came from the South have been distributed throughout San Francisco and Oakland, five hospitals having been established to care for the suffering.

Hundreds of injured and sick were cared for, and yesterday thousands were saved from hunger by the contributions which came from the sympathizing southland on the steamer Roanoke and the Hearst specials on the Southern Pa-cific. W. R. Hearst hospitals have been established at the following places:

CROCKER GRAMMAR SCHOOL, 1111
FORT MASON (DOCTORS AND FORT MASON (DOCTORS AND NURSES FURNISHED), SAN FRAN-CISCO; THE POTRERO, SAN FRAN-CISCO; JEFFERSON ATHLETIC CLUB, SAN FRANCISCO; 1772 GOSS STREET, OAKLAND.

The doctors and nurses from Los Angeles who compose the staff of the W. R. Hearst Relief Hospital organized for the benefit of the earthquake and fire sufferers were given new assignments yester-day, and will continue the charitable work with added earnestness.

One large wagon load of cots and bedding was sent yesterday from the headquarters, 1772 Goss street, to the hospital at the Crocker Grammar School, 7111 Page street, of which the medical diasissted by Dr. Scrogss, Dr. Taggart and about a dozen nurses. This consignment was soon followed by miscellaneous supplies which filled two smaller wagons. Arthur Letts has charge of the supply department.

Dr. Lazard now presides at the Potrero, with Dr. Day as assistant, and four nurses.

At the Jefferson Park garage, which has been converted into a receiving station for the sick, are Dr. Lanterman, Dr. Bresse and ten nurses.

for the sick, are Dr. Lanterman, Dr. Bresee and ten nurses.
Dr. Shorb, with Dr. Sabichi and twelve nurses, were transferred to Fort Mason yesterday. Drs. Hogan and Ballance and six nurses remain at the Goss-street building. Lieutenant Randolph H. Miner directs affairs at the headquarters and keeps closely in touch with the several geoartments.

A reception was held at the Goss-

A soldier was called immediately and the keys secured without further trouble. Quarters were established on the third floor. The big gymnasium was cleared and a surgical table erected. In a very short time the room was full and twenty nurses on duty. Dr. Lanterman and Dr. Breese cared for all patients.

Dr. Day, Dr. Lizzard and acorps of nurses opened relief quarters in the Potrero, and were busy relieving the suffering. One of the largest and best located ing. J. D. Shorb and ten nurses went to the hospital at Fort Mason.

Mrs. L. M. Harrison of 1772 Goss street offered the use of her large home. The rooms were fitted up as wards and Dr. Carret L. Hogan is in charge. The Rev. B. Fay Mills, head of the "Examiner" relief work, also has made this his head-quarters.

ilef work, also has made this his head-quarters.

The Southern California nurses who came north on "The Examiner" specials are the bravest little women in the world. They have labored among the sick and injured without rest, and no work has been too hard for them.

All Los Angeles people are requested to register their names and addresses at the temporary Oakland headquarters of the W. R. Hearst Los Angeles Relief Corps, 1772 Goss street, West Oakland; felephone Oakland 274. All names and addresses will be wired to the Los Angeles "Examiner," so friends can communicate.

The Mission Relief Committee has opened its headquarters at the stable at Twenty-fifth and Guerrero streets, close to the Valencia-street depot. James Ralph Jr., president of the Mission Bank, is in charge, and is assistad by such well-known citizens as George L. Center, William Metzner, Thomas P. Andrews and W. Edwards. The committee has the co-operation of Colonel Kelly, Fourteenth and Market street, in charge of the South of Market and Mission camps. The committee's faith in the city's future is shown by the motto which it displays above the door of the stable, "You Can't Down San Francisco."

Two trains came from Palo Alto yesterday morning with food and milk, which was distributed at the Mission headquarters and across Relief headquarters and across the street from the Valencia-street deport. A body of students from Stanford University were in charge. Supplies were also received from other points along the Southern Pacific coast line.

The therefore went through the regular train to announce that he was going to secure the right of way for a special from Ogden, at his own expense. He invited all who were hurrying to San with provisions.

The first Fort Mason contingent began services and the least street of a few days. Gas and electric light will follow. The warious sub-committees of te General Relief Committee which have these matters in charge are working hard and are reporting progress twice daily. BANKERS CAN RESUME BUSINESS.

The bankers have met and have congratulated each other that their vaults are intact and that they can resume business at once. The insurance people hope to make satisfactory arrangements and restore confidence among business men. The Merchants Exchange will resume operations to-morrow morning in its handsome building on California street. The building was injured by fire, but not so seriously as was feared at first.

The Justices of the Supreme and Appellate Courts have met and made arrangements for the future. Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Commerce and Labor is on his way here to arrange for the restoration of the Federal Courts and departments. President Harriman of the Southern Pacific is expected to-night to make necessary arrangements for transportation, freight and passenger. Incidentally the Southern Pacific will spend $200,000 in the work of relief.

Business houses are advertising their speedy reopenings. M. Guggenheim Sons, the great Eastern house, will construct a $5,000,-000 smelting plant in this city. John A. Roebling Sons, the wire rope and cable makers, will rebuild at once. From all quarters come cheering announcements of business enterprise that bids fair to excel anything that San Francisco attempted in the past.

Substantial offers of assistance come from all parts of this great country. Te relief fund is swelling rapidly. Prominent professional and business men come to the front with interviews teeming with expressions of hope and confidence.

There will be a new and beautiful San Francisco. It will be a city to which this entire country will point with joyous pride.

Its speed westward hastened by the love of a father for his son, the first train bringing supplies from the East arrived at Oakland at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The train consisted of a Pullman, a car sent by the Chicago "American," a car sent from Denver and a car sent by the school children of Ogden. And the father who made it possible for this train to reach its destination twenty-four hours earlier than it had been expected was G. E. As the trip progressed it was found that Oakland could not be reached until Sunday morning on the regular schedule. But Wilson had a son somewhere in San Francisco. Every hour of delay in getting to the end of his journey was torture, since he did not know whether his son was alive or dead, and he cared for nothing else. So, just before reaching Ogden, he determined that his suspense should be made as brief as possible. at Oakland at 1 o'clock yesterday after-

As soon as he got into Oakland Mr. Wilson hurried across to San Francisco and went to the meeting of the general relief cormittee. He was introduced as the man who had brought through the first train of supplies from the east and was given the first vote of thanks. Replying to that vote, however, he said that it was not for thanks that he had come, but to find his boy. Inquiry by members of the committee brought out the fact that the son in question was Orrin A. Wilson of 1224 Pine street, and Mr. Wilson was speedily informed that as that part of Pine street had escaped destruction, his son was in all probability perfectly safe. Made happy by this assurance, Mr. Wilson remained to the end of the meeting and before it adjourned contributed $500 toward the remef fund. parture was made from Ogden at 4:30 Friday afternoon.

out the City Will Be Visited by Clergy.

At a meeting of the Episcopal clergy-men, held at the residence of Bishop Nichols, 2515 Webster street, yesterday, it was decided to hold religious services at the different camps of the homeles throughout the city this morning.

Bishop Nichols will conduct service at the Presidio and will be assisted by the Rev. S. J. Lee; Rev. Franklin Stone will officiate during the morning services at Fort Mason; Rev. B. M. Weeden will conduct the services at Lafayette Square; Rev. W. M. Bours and H. A. Collison will hold a union service at Golden Gate Park: Rev. W. M. Reilly will preach at Alta Plaza; the services at Alma Square will be conducted by the Rev. C. M. Manack; W. M. Hayes will preach at the Park Panhandle, and there will be a general service at Jefferson Square to be conducted by some member of the Episcopal clergy. All of these services will be held at 11 o'clock.

Bishop Nichols announces that his friends have informed The Examiner residence will be the permanent headquarters of the Episcopal church, and all relief work of the clergy will be handled

NEW SAN FRANCISCO TO RISE FROM RUINS

Hope, confidence, optimism, unflinching resolution to place San Francisco on a higher plane of beauty and prosperity than the municipality occupied previous to the earthquake and fire were expressed yesterday by the leading men of the city.

San Francisco will rise from its ashes beautiful as never before. San Francisco's children stand by the City of the Golden Gate laithfully and lovingly.

San Francisco will be rebuilt according to the Burnham plans. Following are statements of prominent people:

"There is but one feeling throughout the State," said Anderson. "That is admiration for the courage shown by the residents of stricken San Francisco. There is but a single course of tetion advised: immediate relief for CITY WILL RISE tetion advised: immediate relief for the sufferers. Merchants, professional men, business men, laborers, persons n all walks of life and of every sort and condition are desirous to assist, but they are anxious that their assistance should be well directed.

"I am convinced-and my conviction is shared by all Sacramento—that San Francisco will be rebuilt into a more beautiful, a more stable and a more prosperous city than the great San Francisco of a week ago. The fighting spirit of the people appears to be termined to show the country what ttermined to show the country what they can do, and such is their faith in their own capabilities that they have already convinced the East that the burned tract of ground on the hills above the Golden Gate offers a better field of investment to-day than any other section of America."

NEW SAN FRANCISCO TO BE SAFE FROM CONFLAGRATIONS

Governor George C. Pardee -Plans for the relief of the hungry and homeless are well organized now, and in a few days plans for rebuilding the city will be considered. It would be premature to say what the plans will be, but it is likely that any plan considered would include a system of boulevards wide enough to make such a conflagration as this one as nearly impossible as human effort can make it. The cits standing in the financial world is of the highest.

Mr. Porter had issued an order to his men in charge to deliver oil to all the shipping in the harbor applying therefor. From the Berry-street station he was delivering oil to the stations of the Spring Valley Water Co. throughout the city for pumping purposes and was prepared to accommodate all comers in need of fuel oil to the extent of the capacity of the tanks at that point, some 10,000 barrels. He said the company would not ask compensation at present.

SAN FRANCISCO TO BE BUILT

NEW YORK, April 20---We have had ten of our stores and a warehouse destroyed in San Francisco, (fortunately among our own people no lives were lost.) Our own loss of close to $300,000 measures small in our grief and sympathy for our friends and customers. However, this is our policy: We have sent ten of our best men, including our treasurer, director of construction, and general superintendent there, with orders to open, TWENTY new stores immediately. We believe the city will be rebuilt at once. We understand the damage from earthquake was small, and in the rebuilding steel construction will undoubtedly remove the possibility of future disaster from fire or earthquake. WE WANT TO BE PART OF THE BIG, the new San Francisco will have.

We believe it will be a better and greater city than ever, and we will back our judgment with our money.

BY EDWARD CAHILL

IN THE PARK PANHANDLE, April 21 .- "Where is the canopener?" comes like the wail of a lost spirit first thing in the morning. In that mischievous and malignant little instrument lies the key of salvation. We are taking our summer outing in the woods a little prematurely it may be, but with a stout heart. Back to nature and the can-opener. They go together, God bless them.

The indomitable spirit of the race prevails. My neighbor has built her a fireplace of five bricks in the middle of the street and with an iron plate and a bit of bacon rind is flopping batter cakes, and the pile mounts every moment a smoking heap.

Hard by the man of the house is chopping kindling wood with the help of half suppressed profanity and a hatchet whose attachment to the handle is imperfect. People are learning the secrets of camp life. Some of us are still extravagant of wood and have not yet discovered that it is unnecessary to build a fireplace four bricks high. A circle of single bricks and a few chips makes at the same time the most effective and the most economical cooking range. We are learning economy of labor and material in the hard school of ex-

The Devil on Two Sticks has lifted the roof off the domestic economy of San Francisco. We are cooking in the middle of the street. Old rusty camp stoves are dug out of the cellars and put to service, but the greatest of these is the brick fireplace. That is one boon the earthquake left us. There are bricks to burn, bricks everywhere in ugly and forbidding heaps. We make them serve.

There is not a clock going within twenty blocks save only one indecent old cuckoo which maintains its ancient reputation of being always an hour and twenty minutes wrong. Its cheerful but misleading hoot serves to recall a suspended civilization. Not even an earthquake could phase that astonishing old bundle of wheels. It stands and has stood through all the terrors as firm as Roderick Dhu and his celebrated rock.

Here comes the man in khaki with a hatchet sticking out of one pocket and a monkey wrench from the other. In his hand he packs a bucket. He is hunting water. Thank God for the park service. There are fifty thousand people camping here either in their houses or under the trees and their only recourse for water is that from the park hydrants. In rare places a city hydrant gives a little trickle, but the water is under suspicion. It has been given out that the main and the sewer got mixed in some manner unexplained, and we have been warned against drinking it.

.What do we need most? Water and again water. We must have it and soon. We have enough to drink, but it is needed and needed imperatively for sanitation. One shudders at the terrors that may arise when the houses and camps become foul for want of water to flush the drains. Remember that the population of half San Francisco is eating, drinking and living on cramped and narrow

Next to water our most immediate need is disinfectants. We want plenty of them and an organized system of nouse-to-ho.ise service. Working day and night since the hour of the earthquake, some of these sanitary inspection. Dr. Ragan, our health officer, is organizing operators have been without sleep or rest during the entire period. As a result several of the chauffeurs last night fell in utter collapse in front of the municipal the congested district. He has a big basement that can be made a headquarters, center of deposit and distribution, I appeal to me people on the outside to send him a cart load of disinfectants. We shall need them all.

Food we have for the present. Long rows of men and women stand in the bread line for hours at the distributing points. There is not enough of these. Most of us are living on the canned stuff that we secured as best we might on the morning after the earthquake. That supply will soon give out. There is plenty of food outside, but the problem is to get it to the people with most of the roads

The temper of the people is splendid. Absolute order prevails. We thank God for the soldiers and the visible sign of authority. Yet the organizing spirit of the American people is such that even without the boys in blue we should of ourselves create a peace force. Already we are: organizing neighborhood patrols to supplement the military arm amd see that neither fire nor light is permitted within the houses day or night. In the afternoons when the sea breeze They Demand Hospitality springs up no sort of cooking is allowed on the streets or anywhere

The University of California cadets are doing splendid work. They patrol and police a wide strip extending almost clear across the city from Waller street on the south to Greenwich on the north, and east and west from Devisadero to Broderick, I think. They are right in the heart of the congested district.

I saw Colomel Jim Force-Sunny Jim of the football field-tall and manly, at this headquarters on Devisadero street yesterday. "No," he said, "our men have not shot anybody. They have used their guns when they caught people stealing or selling liquor, but I guess"—this with a hesitating smile—"they fired in the air. "One of our own men was wounded by a shot, but not seriously. It was Private Aikin. The thing was an accident. We caught some men selling liquor and one man udertook to stop it and there was some disturbance. A party of regular troops came up at the moment

"Where do the boys sleep?" was asked.

"Right out there in the lot," said Colonel Force, pointing to a vacant place across the street where one saw heaps of blankets under

On the night that the big fire was quelled as I stood on Buena Vista Heights I got into conversation with a private soldier on patrol. I did not quite recognize the uniform. It was not exactly of progress. the National Guard. He did not belong to the regulars. I was rather surprised to find him a man of education. It was all explained when Colonel Force told me he was one of "our boys" of whom we are so to the use of the homeless, every school building and church considered school building and church considered and will be proud. You can hear any sort of shuddery rumors you please or don't please in this neighborhood. They are in the air like shadowy safe also being opened and will be terrors. They stell you the same purpose. Among terrors. They ttell you there is smallpox in the next block and the the large institutions that have been horrors of quarantine may be added to our sorrows. They will tell Heart Academy at Ellis and Franklin you that dead men are being buried naked in the sands at the ocean streets, the St. Francis Technical School at Gough and Geary and the beach. I don't know what all they will tell you, and these things railroad car barn at California and that they tell you are all false. I ascertained to-day that there is one case of smallpox in the Golden Gate Park. The place is quarantined district have been deserted by their occupants, who have either fied from and under guard. There is no danger, and the conditions for the patient's recoverry are ideal, because there is no better smallpox hospital than a tent:.

for Homeless Ones From More Fortunate People.

The soldiers stationed throughout the unburnt districts west of Van Ness avenue made strenuous efforts Friday night to see that all of the campers in outlying parks and on the streets who were not well supplied with blankets should be given temporary quarters with the more fortunate residents whose homes were saved. Ev-

Along Fillmore street for its entire length the soldiers entered the saloons and corner groceries, and with axes destroyed liquor where they found it. The drug stores also received many visits, and all necessary drugs and medicines, also chloride of lime, were 'commandeered" and transferred to the various emergency hospitals throughout the city. A pumping station to give water to the park section of the city will be established at the Chutes, north of Golden Gate Park. Machinery is now being installed at that point. It is expected that this station will be able to supply at least 10,000 gallons per hour and will temporarily relieve a

ELECTRIC WORKERS' UNION.
The headquarters of Electrical Workers' Union, No. 6, have been opened at 2315 California street. All members are requested to report there at the earliest possible moment.

Governor Pardee has wired the California congressional delegation to ascertain immediately the amount of federal property that has been destroyed, and has requested that the present congress be asked to appropriate the funds necessary to replace all the federal buildings were at the earliest possible moment.

Professor E. L. Larkin, the eminent scientist now in charge of the Mount Lowe Observatory, has sent word to the relief committee that as a result of his investigations he feels justified in announcing that there is no danger that the recent seismic disturbances will be repeated. Professor Larkin has made a special study of earthquake conditions, and his opinion carries great weight.

Until further orders the State Supreme Court will be located in Judge Morrow's court.

MEN COMPELLED TO CLEAN UP STREET.

E. G. Cahill, a mining engineer, volunteered to superinteend the clearing of Market street at Jones street if fur-nished with men, picks and shovels. At once the guard impressed the first hun-dred ablebodied men that happened along and under Cahill's direction part of the city's main thoroughfare was re-stored to order. In the hour the men were forced to toll a half block was cleared.

EXAMINER."

South of Market street the loss of life was mostly brought about by the collapsing of many cheap and crowded lodging-houses. Among others, the caving-in of the Royal, corner Fourth and Minna streets, added to the horror of the situation by the shricks of its many scores of victims embedded in the ruins and who were unable to escape from the mass of timbers which buried them. Insistently they implored for help, apparently even in their agony realizing that the fire was close upon them. Many of the more fortunate who had escaped from surrounding houses worked hard to lib-erate the victims before it became too ward the shrieks still continued until in despair the rescuers were forced Arthur W. Burgren, Emma A. Burgren House, on Sixth street between Mission and Market, came about in a similar manner. Fully sixty persons were entombed midst the crash of timbers and brick, their agonizing cries for relief being heard half a Many of these were saved before the fire eventually crept to the scene and were hurriedly driven to the relief hospital organized at the Mechanics'

Pavilion. The large five-story Brunswick oming-house, with its 300 rooms filled with guests, corner Sixth and Howard streets, collapsed to the ground entirely and fire started amidst the ruins scarcely five minutes later. It is estimated that over 300 persons lost their lives. One of the number was Herman Mehrtens, a German grocer who occupied a room in the house and kept a grocery store on an opposite corner.

Part of the large Cosmopolitan
House, corner Fifth and Mission streets, collapsed at the very first temblor. Many of the sleepers were bur-ied in the ruins, others escaping to the streets in their night clothes. At 775 Mission street, the Wilson

House, with its four stories and eighty rooms, fell to the ground a mass of ruins. So far as known, very few of the inmates were rescued.

The Denver House, on lower Third street, with its many rooms, fared the same fate, and none may ever know how many were killed, the majority of the inmates being strangers of limited means, in a strange city. A small two-story frame building occupied by man and wife, at 405 Jesstreet, also collapsed without an instant's warning. Both were killed, To the north of Market street the rooming house people fared somewhat better. The Luxembourg, cor-ner Stockton and O'Farrell streets, a three-story affair, suffered severely from the falling of many tons of brick from an adjoining building. The fall-

On Geary street, between Fillmore and Steiner, two large, new, partly constructed brick and stone buildings, one the Albert Pike Memorial Temple and the other the Congregation Beth Israel Church, both practically collapsed, the roofs falling in.

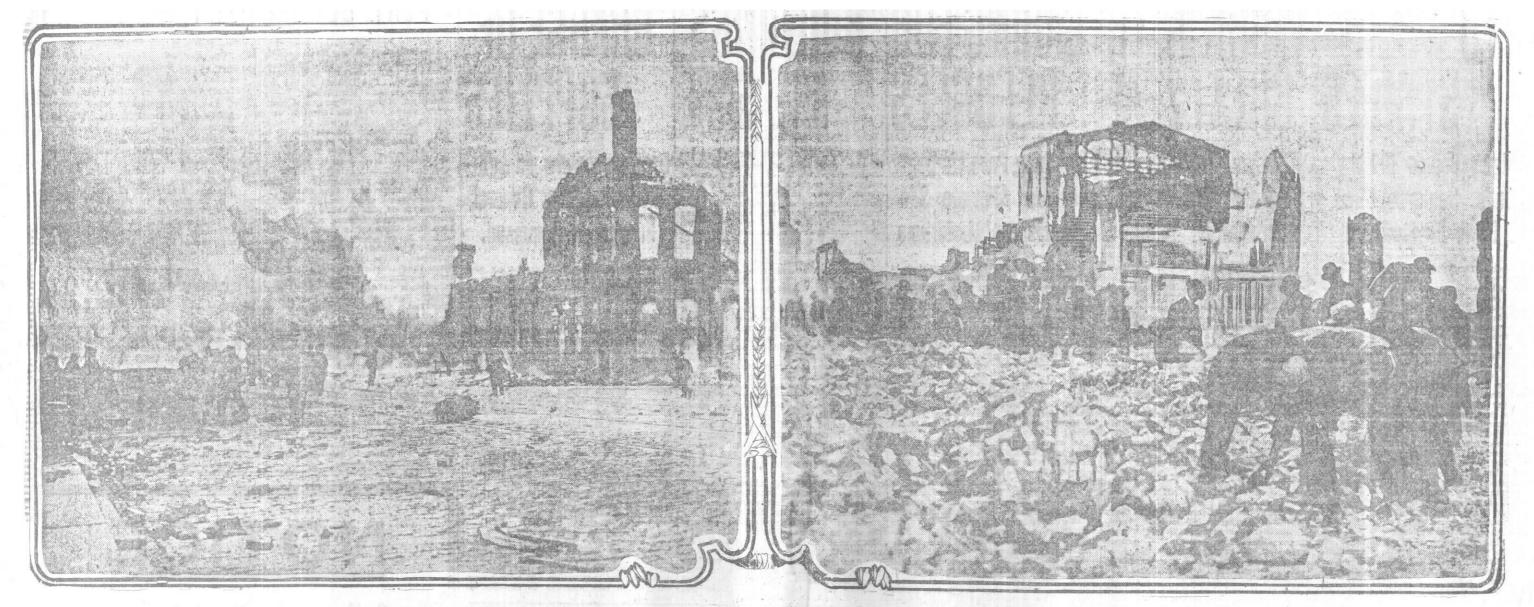

Not far away, on Sutter and Steiner streets, a large new building being constructed for the Golden Gate Commandery of the Scottish Rites, fell with a crash. At the corner of Ellis and Mason streets the heavy brick cornice of the Y. M. C. A. Building crashed into the street below, filling the sidewalks with Along the wharfs many of the warehouses fell flat upon the docks, burying freight and store beneath their weight. Out on Polk street, between Lombard and Greenwich, a frame building belonging to a Mrs. Shea, escaped both fire and earthquake in some sort

DAWN BRINGS HOPE TO HOMELESS REFUGEES

At Daybreak Yesterday.

Saturday morning broke raw and chill over the ruins of San Francisco, but hope came with the dawn. The fferry building, looining through the fog, assured the refugees that escape was still possible and the city open to help from the outside world.

At midnight, the fire, doubling back through the North Beach district, was licking up the big warehouses in the shadow of Telegraph Hill and threatened to make a clean sweep of the water from from Broadway to Mission. The ramnant of the fire department massed along the wharves. Seventy-two hours without sleep, the brave i: lows rallied once more. They were fighting too keep the city open and save the ferry slips from destruction. Tank cars containing oil were tumbled into the bay, buildings were pulled down-every man did two men's work. But it was not until the wind had shifted that the fight was won. The flames turned back just in time to save the wharves. By daybreak the danger from fire was over and the fire- the things which the authorities must grapple with. men dropped beside their blackened engines.

The vast encampment in Golden Gate Park was astir early this morning. All the open space has been utilized; as far as the eye can reach the lawns are covered with rude shelter tents. Women, in costly opera cloaks, shivered over small fires while the men went out to forage for firewood or join the long bread lines on Eddy street.

The most amazing thing—the thing which strikes every newcomer—is the spirit of these homeless people. They make a jest of misfortune—they turn a calamity into wayside comedy.

One man managed to save a small upright piano. How he ever got it into the Park Panhandle is a mystery. Seated on a cracker box, he gives impromptu ragtime concerts, and his favorite selection is "Home Ain't Nothing Like This." And the hundreds of homeless ones within the sound of the piano seem to appreciate the grim joke.

At the Stanvan-street entrance a woman has erected a tentfour sticks with a damask tablecloth spread over them. Her furnishings consist of several articles of wearing apparel tied in a sheet and a canary in a cage. Over the entrance hangs a sign, "Your Fortune Told Here—Cheap.'

One man has built a teepee of evergreen boughs and he sits inside, the proud possessor of the only silk hat in the Panhandle and a a comfortable home. Now he toasts bacon over a fire and eats it with his fingers. If he can locate his wife he will be perfectly happy.

anxious ones. Not one of them wanted to know anything about the food supply or the chances of any betterment in their position. Without an exception they asked news of friends or relatives.

Husbands who had lost their wives-wives who had lost their husbands, anxious mothers seeking some word of their children-the stories were very much the same. One very pretty woman in an expensive tailor-made costume sadly stained and torn had lost her little girl.

"I don't think anything has happened to her," said she, hopefully. "She is almost eleven years old and some one will be sure to take her in and care for her. I only want to know where she is. That is all I care about now."

Two race track men met in the driveway.

"Hullo, Bill, where are you living now?" asked one.

"You see that tree over there-that big one?" said Bill. "Well, you climb that and my room is on the third branch to the left." And they went away laughing.

Another man wanted to know whether the fire had reached his home. He was informed that there was not a house standing in that section of the city.

He shrugged his shoulders and whistled.

"There's lots of us in the same boat," said he as he turned away. And these men who have lost everything are planning to begin all over again.

"Going to build?" repeated one man who lost factory and home inside of two hours. "Of course I am. They tell me that the money, in the banks is all right and I have some insurance. Fifteen years ago I began with these" showing his hands, "and I guess I'm game to do it over again. Build again? Well, I wonder!" These little things show the spirit with which the people of San of trouble.

Francisco have faced the worst that the fates could send. They are down but not out. The spirit of forty-nine lives and moves among those tattered refugees and no loss can crush it out of existence. They are the sons of the men who made San Francisco the greatest city in the West. To them and their sons is given the task of retrieving a city's fortunes.

Newspapers were eagerly sought for. Early in the morning automobiles whizzed through the park and copies of "The Exam-Danger From Fire Was Over automobiles whizzed through the park and copies of "The Examiner" were thrown out. Immediately the driveways filled with people struggling for a chance to scan the printed sheets.

"Well, fellows," said one man, "I see the old 'Examiner' ain't out of business yet! If they can keep on getting out the paper I guess there's a chance for all of us!" The park is under military control. Armed guards are everywhere, and while there have been hundreds of rumors of shooting because of lawless acts, actual cases are very rare.

At seven-thirty all fires must be extinguished in the park. One Military and Civic Organinegro lit a cigar and refused to put it out when ordered to do "Put it out or I'll shoot it out!" said the soldier, leveling his reve. er.

And the negro put it out. Every effort is being made to keep the great encampment in a sanitary condition. The task is a gigantic one, but the right men are in charge of it. The Board of Health meets in the Park Lodge and the military is there to enforce all orders on the dot. Hundreds of barrels of lime are needed and needed badly.

There was a rumor to-day that typhoid had broken out in the city. The sewers are broken open throughout the burned district thus giving the Presidio medical staff and the stench is growing worse with each day. This is just one of

Out at Fort Mason, at the foot of Van Ness avenue, General Funston and Governor Pardee have their headquarters. To them that may arise the officers report for duty. Handicapped by a lack of transportation, the soldiers are doing the best they can with the co-operation of a Red Cross corps. The badge of the Red Cross admits everywhere. Automobiles fly it; men wear it on their arms or their hats the army medical staff, who has charge of the sanitary department. and the guard lines are always opened to them. It is a better pass and was agreed to last evening than the card bearing the signature of Governor Pardee, for those men of the Red Cross are doing a noble work and fighting down thousands of difficulties.

The officers are still seizing vehicles and pressing them into service. Down on the water front a naval lieutenant seized two carriages. They were needed to transfer a corps of "Examiner" nurses to a hospital in the unburned district.

But this is MY rig!" said one of the drivers. "Show me your authority for holding me up like this!"

"The only authority I can show you is this," said the officer, dropping his hand to his pistol. "Is that enough for you?"

San Francisco is no place for the curiosity seeker. The work of clearing the car tracks on Market street began at dawn this mornbanjo with broken strings. Three days ago that man had a wife and ing. Every idle man was pressed into service. Most of them went Opposite the ruins of the City Hall a husky big sergeant had a "The Examiner" sign on our automobile brought hundreds of squad of fifty citizens pitching bricks out of the middle of the street.

"Ain't they doing fine?" said he, with a broad grin. "I've got the Chief of Police of Milpitas or somewhere in there throwing bricks. He told me who he was, but I persuaded him. He's doing well. We'll have this street open clear to the ferry before night. See

But there are thousands of willing workers who do not need any persuasion. They are anxious to do anything to improve the situation. They toil like beavers and never stop until that particular bit of work is finished.

The people still in the unburned district are beginning to realize the danger of building fires in the houses. Every house has its little brick oven out in the street. There the meals are cooked. Those who have food share it with their neighbors and as yet there has been no actual hunger except in isolated cases.

Help is pouring in from all points. The first relief train from Chicago got into Oakland this morning. The Roanoke, bearing food, bedding and surgical supplies from Los Angeles, arrived at Howardstreet Pier No. 2 early this morning, and the supplies were hustled over the side and promptly distributed.

Every city in the north is sending food and supplies by rail and water, and the railroads are giving relief trains the right of way over everything.

Several corps of doctors and nurses from inland California points are doing what they are pleased to call guerrilla work. At the athletic club, near Jefferson square, a big corps of physicians and nurses work day and night carinig for the sick and wound-

All are reported doing well. Private houses have been thrown open to the Red Cross people, and this part of the work is going on without any particular amount that the supplies might be distributed

Three babies were born in that temporary hospital last night.

There was some relief of the crowded condition of the camp in the square before noon to-day, when a little army of the refugees, carrying all they had in the world upon their backs, made their way through debris and wreck-age to the Ferry building. Here those who were without funds were given transportation across the bay, and those that did not stop in Oakland went on to Fruitvale, where the Fruit-vale Relief Committee has erected a temporary structure for their shelter. The ladies of that neighborhood are prepared to furnish food to all that can be accommodated in the Relief Committee's temporary home.

THE NEW SAN FRANCISCO.—HOW TO

San Francisco has an unparalleled opportunity before it. The city is to rise again greater than before, and the ground has been cleared for building it in the ideal manner.

Mistakes of the most serious character were made in the original laying out of the city. It has been the standing lament that they could not be corrected on account of the expense of cutting out the miles of buildings that had been put in the wrong place.

Now is the time to correct these mistakes. A commission of the most eminent architects, business men and real estate agents should be given the task of readjusting the street lines in a way to open up the new thoroughfares, that business, civic adornment and the safety of property demand.

Something may be done to correct the mistake of running straight line streets over the steepest hills or grades impossible to wagon or automobile traffic. The pressing need so long felt for a great avenue leading on an easy grade from the business center to the Pacific Heights district can be met. The still greater need for a broad avenue giving direct connection between the Mission road and the business center can be satisfied still more completely. The distance from Market and Kearny streets to the junction of Mission and Valencia streets can be cut nearly one-third by taking the direct line, instead of following the roundabout course of Market, Valencia and Mission

Two such avenues as proposed would do away with much of the congestion that has made the car traffic of

Market street so difficult to hamdle. Other suggestions even more valuable can be had from those familiar with the traffic problems of the city.

Two lessons of the most pressing importance were taught by the great catastrophe. First, WIDEN THE STREETS. It was the 125 feet of space on Van Ness avenue that made it possible for the fire fighters to win their last gallant stand. It was the width of Market street that stayed the progress of the flames for hours, and would have: saved the north side if there had been any water with which to make a fight. Put in streets as wide or wider at intervals, in order that any future conflagration may be readily confined to a small district.

The second lesson is the urgent need of A HIGH PRESSURE WATER SYSTEM. This should consist of separate units fed from ample reservoirs on Telegraph Hill, Russian Hill, Twin Peaks and other elevations. It should be fed in ordinary seasons with fresh water. But pumping stations should be maintained so that at any time the water of bay or ocean can be thrown into them in sufficient volume to give the firemen a chance. The city should never again be caught in the predicament of Wednesday.

These things and more can be accomplished. Baltimore has shown the way to the readjustment of land titles necessary to widening old streets and making new ones. A commission headed by men like Professor Zueblin and D. H. Burnham working with local business men and lawyers could solve the problem and give San Francisco the chance to become all that its peopple have wished it to be.

KINDNESS OF THE FIRM HAND

The fact that four days after the most appalling calamity that ever befell an American city there exists in that city a condition of hopefulness, patience and an absolute lack of confusion is due in the first place to the brave spirit of the people. No small share of must be enforced, there is no time for fine discriminations or for the honor of this condition is due to those efficient citizens who, under the direction of Mayor Schmitz, took charge of affairs at the all the grim severity of the military rule, there has been a spirit of first crisis, and to the military, whose duty has been done with a fidelity and an intelligence beyond all praise.

From the moment the measured tramp of the soldiers from the was meted out without hesitation. Presidio down shattered Market street proclaimed the advent of under the silly varnish of the surface and really know them at all.

I met a woman out in Jefferson square to-day who ought to sit for a picture of the Incarnation of the Spirit of San Francisco.

She was standing in a funny little square tent made partly of boards and partly of ragged bits of cloth. She were a dress that had been through the fire with her, but her bright hair was brushed neatly back from her rosy face. She was washing dishes, petting a dog, talking baby talk to a baby and bossing some half-dozen of boys, all at the same time.

"Run down to the edge of the pavement with these beans," she said to one boy, "and see if you can't find somebody's fire to warm 'em a little by.

"Hike over to the commissaryy wagon; they're giving out eggs there. The baby can't eat these beans. Where are those blankets? Didn't I tell you rascals to put them out to air? Oh, yes; I've got thirteen boarders. Yes; we all sleep in this tent. No; they don't pay me a cent. Burnt out? Who isn't?

"What's the use of being blue about it, though? Didn't yer see our totem at the door? Allow me to present you. This is our friend, Happy Hooligan."

And there on the ridgepole of the tent was perched a little wooden Happy Hooligan on top of a crudely painted sign which said:

"Cheer Up."

EXPLORATIONS OF EARTHQUAKE EFFECTS

By Professor Edgar L. Larkin.

At this writing I have finished making a careful study of the ravages and devastations of the great and now historic cearthquake. It will be known in scientific literature for centuries to come as the San Francisco earthquake. The best possible place to find the recorded history of an earthquake, written by itself, is a cemetery. Landing at the ferry, it was with astonishment, awe and sadness that a journey was made thirough the melancholy ruins, remnants of a splendid city—a city, proud once in her majesty and one that will be proud and glad again—out to that other city, an habitation of the dead -Laurel Hill Cemetery. The walk through miles of ruins was a forceful reminder of that catastrophe, the great fire in Chicago. The writer wandered amid ruined palaces until brain and body were tired there; and mow, in the ruined metropolis of the West, the mind is awed with the magnitude of the appalling calaimity.

THE EARTHQUAKE.

This upheaveal will take rank as one of the most intricate and complex upheavals on record. First impressionss were that it is a typical circular wave earthquake, not of the well-known linear form. Here are facts gleaned in the cemetery—rough determinations, made without instruments with which to measure amplitudes of displacement of pillars and columns:

In an area dedicated to the San Francisco Volunteer Firemen, an oval space perhaps 100 feet in diameter, a number of monuments of marble and granite are thrown to the ground. Four of the fallen ones point towards the north, three west, one south, one east, two northwest and two northeast. The heavy, anad massiive shafts were toward the north and northwest, while those small and easily overthrown were in the other directions. To make a vertical obelisk fall toward the north the wave must ome from the north, and to the west from the west, and so on; for the columns fall toward the waves that hit the bases; under them. Now the small inclosure presents overthrows indicating all these motions. The earthquake was complex; that is, the first motion of the earth's surface was compounded of several at once, and the surface was actuated by one great impulse, followed by others weaker and weaker, able only to throw over the weaker columns in varying directions. If one compound shock, made of several acting simultaneously (therefore appearing to be one) occurred that moved the heavy monuments, and then many lesser shocks came, distorting the lighter columns, then there are GLAD TIDINGS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.

During more: than a century, earthquakes have been studied with ever increasing accuracy, and in the latter days these researches have been aided by delicate instruments. And the net result of a hundred years is that when the first impulse is single, or, if compound the varying impulses appear to be merged into one severe shock, then this initial shock may be followed by one, two or three others; they rapidly weaken, wane and wear away into imperceptible tremors. And that is what the earthquake here has done. It is typical. From these results of many years investigation in all parts of the world by able men, the writer has no hesitation in advancing the opinion that the shocks are either at an end or near the close. I have asked many here, and they say that there have been from twenty-

In the cemettery many monuments are twisted around on their bases. Nearly all these have had their north sides skewed around so that they now face the northwest. At first it was thought that all were so; but two light columns have their north sides shifted to face the northeast. Indeed, the oscillations were complex. One stone gives the history of the earthquake in a most impressive manner. On the heavy base rests a huge square stone. On this stands a human figure in massive marble. In the wreck of San Francisco the ticles were one pair of shoes. I barefooted it up Bush street towards Grant

But, ye people of the stricken city, see what colossal force was hurled against your great buildings, your palaces, temples, churches, cathedrals and mansions! A force able to mowe a heavy mass, free to slide, TEN inches was thrust horizontally against the walls. It is wonderful to think of the resistance of modern steel and concrete structures. In looking over the history of earthquakes I feel willing to say that this is like all the others of its class-the deep-seated circular wave class-and that its fury has died away, and that there will be no more shocks. Were I one of the homelless ones I would seek the first cover of a roof, whether on a hut or a lofty building. I visited many of the suffering and bewildered refugees last night. Their condition was patheticsleeping on the ground, amid cheerless surroundings and harassed by winds flapping the sheets and canvas of their humble shelters. I talked with many, and was impressed with their fortitude. Incredible to relate, I saw but four that were weeping. But tears must have been shed in silence elsewhere, for wailings were heard when Jerusalem fell in war, Rome and Chicago in fire, and many other cities in the turbulence of earthquakes.

Tom Ferguson dug me up next morning. "I don't know you," he said, without reproach, "but I kept the sa-And now everybody will join in the upbuilding of a grand new San Francisco. "Not enough. You'll be wanting to get your family over to Oakland, and told me that the fire was the best event that ever happened for the city's welfare. But in the midst of the debris, three days after the calamity, this same man told all his troubles to me and bewailed you'll have to bribe a wagon or an automobile. Take this twenty. Oh, hell, don't worry about me. I stuck his losses. And now, when a blackened pall swings low in sable folds, hovering over prostrate San Francisco, is it too much for a stranger to come here and write, "best thing that ever happened"? hell, don't worry about me. # In those six hours I, a stranger, was three times offered food and twice offered water. A smooth-faced chunk of a boy saw that I looked tired and asked me to ride with him in his two-wheeled cart perched on the mattress he was taking to some homeless friends. A young fellow with the good old letters U. S. A. on his collar went out of his way to offer to find people for me, and a woman with eyes soft with gentle pity asked me if I had any place to sleep. If I had not she said that she would take me home with her. And then I knew that the dreadful story of death and hopeless misery the blackened ruins were trying to tell me was false. San Francisco, the best beloved of the world, is not dead, and can never die while one man or woman with the true spirit that made the old San Francisco what it was still lives. The beautiful streets, the smiling parks, the friendly houses of friends, the gay restaurants—these things were only a little bit of the outside dress of San Francisco. The real San Francisco is just as much alive to-day as it was some seven sweet years ago when the whole city was gay with flags to welcome our boys home from the Philippines. San Francisco in ruins! Why, you couldn't kill San Francisco with a dozen earthquakes and

And fragments of the picture come back to the survivors, the reconstructors. It is only natural that they should be very personal. Each man has a story in his breast, a raw, incomplete narrative of terror. That is the splash of red on the canvas, and concerns not so much man as the elements. That was revealed in a single shock, and at best imperfectly understood, for the sedentary intellect of the twentieth century is hardly equipped to cope with anything so direct, so uncomplicated, so unsubtle, so brutal.
